

Yvonne Garcia
Health Communication Specialist
National Center for Immunization and Respiratory Diseases
Centers for Disease Control and Prevention

Ms. Garcia serves as the team lead for the national influenza vaccine communications campaign. She supports her new role with over 14 years of experience as a CDC contractor charged with directing various immunization campaigns targeting audiences through the lifespan. She has applied her knowledge of health communication, social marketing, outreach to underserved populations, and building sustainable multi-sector partnerships to support several outreach communication activities at CDC.