

Nar Ramkissoon MPH
UPP Technologies

Mr. Ramkissoon has 7 years of public health and healthcare experience, having worked with the Chicago Department of Public Health and Children's Memorial Hospital in Chicago. He obtained his MPH from DePaul University, with a background in epidemiology and biostatistics, including to immunizations and environmental health.

Currently, Nar leads the SMART Health Claims group of UPP Technology, providing consulting, technology, and outsourced services to public sector clients in order to streamline processes and maximize reimbursements. In addition, Nar is working with several statewide CDC Billables projects to develop or enhance the billing capacity of local health agencies, including contracting and credentialing with health plans.