

Carlos Velázquez MA
Senior Vice President of Community Engagement
HMA Associates, Inc.

Mr. Velázquez has been in the health and policy field for more than 20 years, designing and implementing national and local communication programs in the US and abroad. His work in health disparities has touched upon issues related to immunization, HIV/AIDS, substance abuse, tobacco preventions and control, infant mortality, domestic violence, and food insecurity.

In his capacity with HMA Associates in Washington, DC, Mr. Velázquez oversees the CDC's communications initiative for grassroots social marketing to promote influenza immunization to disparate populations.
