

Walter Williams MD, MPH
Medical Epidemiologist
Assessment Branch, Immunization Services Division
National Center for Immunization and Respiratory Diseases

Dr. Williams has held a number of leadership positions during his over 30 years at CDC, including serving as the principal advisor to CDC Executives on health disparities and minority health issues. He has published extensively and spoken at regional and national symposia on topics related to epidemiology, public health, and preventive medicine. He holds faculty appointments at the Morehouse Medical School and the Emory University School of Public Health, and is the Chairman of the Advisory Committee for the Residency in Public Health and Preventive Medicine, Morehouse School of Medicine. Dr. Williams is a Diplomate of the American Board of Internal Medicine and the National Board of Medical Examiners and a Fellow of the American College of Preventive Medicine.