

Tiffany D'Mello
Epidemiologist
Surveillance and Outbreak Response Team
Centers for Disease Control and Prevention

Tiffany D'Mello has worked in domestic and international influenza surveillance in various capacities within CDC, the U.S. Department of Defense, and the Pan American Health Organization. She joined the Epidemiology and Prevention Branch in the Influenza Division at CDC during the 2009 H1N1 pandemic, and is currently an epidemiologist with the Surveillance and Outbreak Response Team.