

Katelyn Wells PhD
Research and Development Director
Association of Immunization Managers

Dr. Katelyn Wells has thirteen years of experience developing, managing, financing and researching immunization related programs at the community, state, and national levels. She has been with AIM since 2007, and in that time she has established AIM research, improved and expanded AIM communications, established AIM evaluation procedures, conducted multiple research projects including the AIM Annual Survey, and established the Vaccine Facts and Policy project, HPV Call to Action webinar series, and AIM Promising Practices webinar series.

Prior to coming to AIM, Dr. Wells worked in the private sector coordinating community vaccination clinics and served in the Wyoming Immunization Program as the Immunization Program Manager and VFC Coordinator. She holds a PhD in Education and Human Resources with an interdisciplinary study in Adult Education and Health Promotion. She has multiple peer-reviewed manuscripts focusing on immunization programs and policy published in journals such as: Vaccine, Public Health Reports, Journal of Public Health Management & Practice, Human Vaccines & Immunotherapeutics, Biosecurity and Bioterrorism: Biodefense Strategy, Practice, and Science.