

Carla Black MPH, PhD
Epidemiologist
Assessment Branch, Immunization Services Division
National Center for Immunization and Respiratory Diseases
Centers for Disease Control and Prevention

Dr. Carla Black has worked as an epidemiologist on issues related to influenza vaccination, vaccination among special populations of adults (such as pregnant women, health care personnel, and nursing home residents), and childhood vaccination. She served as a member of the 2009 H1N1 coverage monitoring team. She is the author/co-author of 15 publications in medical journals, and she has provided numerous presentations at scientific meetings.

Dr. Black received her PhD in Epidemiology from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, a MPH in Epidemiology from Emory University, and a BS in Biochemistry from Texas A&M University.