

Ben Yarnoff PhD
Health Economist
Public Health Economics Program
RTI International

Mr. Yarnoff specializes in analyzing the costs of clinical and public health programs. He has led many studies assessing costs in many public health and clinical areas including vaccination, Patient-Centered Medical Homes, community prevention programs, and stroke systems of care quality improvement. He is currently leading 3 studies examining the economics of vaccination for adults.