

Jill Powelson
Director of Clinical Translation
Analytics Division
AMGA

In her role with AMGA, Ms. Powelson works with medical groups to identify and spread data-driven best practices for improving population health. She has spent the past 15 years in medical practice operations and quality leadership roles and 25+ years total working in healthcare organizations. She was vice president for physician services at the University of Tennessee Medical Group and an executive director at Baptist Medical Group (both in Memphis, Tennessee).

Ms. Powelson has undergraduate degrees in finance and nursing and is a registered nurse. She has master's degrees in business (University of Memphis) and public health (Johns Hopkins University). She is also a certified professional coder through the AAPC; she is proficient in CPT and ICD-10-CM diagnosis coding. She is currently a candidate for a doctorate in public health (DrPH) at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.