

Alicia M. Fry M.D., M.P.H.
Chief, Epidemiology and Prevention Branch
Centers for Disease Control and Prevention

Dr. Fry has worked in the Influenza Division, National Centers for Disease Control and Prevention at CDC since 2007 and is currently the chief of the Epidemiology and Prevention Branch. She has expertise in influenza antiviral agents and vaccines. Her work is documented in over 250 articles in peer-reviewed journals, Morbidity and Mortality Weekly Reports, and book chapters.

Dr. Fry earned her Doctorate of Medicine from the University of Cincinnati, College of Medicine in Ohio, and trained in Internal Medicine at Johns Hopkins Hospital in Baltimore and Infectious Diseases at University of California, San Francisco. She has a Master of Public Health from the University of California, Berkeley.