System Antimicrobial Stewardship Manager
Intermountain Health

Whitney Buckel, PharmD, BCIDP is the System Antimicrobial Stewardship Manager at Intermountain Health, a 33-hospital health system across 5 states in the Intermountain West. Her first 5 years after residency were as the Clinical Infectious Diseases Pharmacist at Intermountain Medical Center, where she established an Antimicrobial Stewardship Program as well as a role for ID pharmacy within the ID Consultation service. In 2017, she moved into a leadership role co-leading antimicrobial stewardship across 24 hospitals and over 185 clinics throughout Utah and Idaho. She has co-led pioneering work in health-system stewardship that includes small and rural hospitals and outpatient stewardship, including collaborative work with Pew Charitable Trusts to better describe health-system level stewardship and its powerful potential to improve patient care. Dr. Buckel has previously served as the Antimicrobial Stewardship Track Chair for The Society of Healthcare Epidemiology of America Spring Meeting, Vice Chair on the Board of Pharmacy Specialties Specialty Council on Infectious Diseases and is currently Board Member at Large for the Society of Infectious Diseases Pharmacists. In her free time, she enjoys hiking, skiing, traveling and spending time with her family.
