

Barney S. Graham, MD, PhD

Professor and Director

David Satcher Global Health Equity Institute at Morehouse School of Medicine

Barney S. Graham is an infectious diseases physician and scientist. He has a BA from Rice University, MD from the University of Kansas, and PhD from Vanderbilt University. He retired as Deputy Director of the NIAID Vaccine Research Center in 2021 and is now Professor and Director of the David Satcher Global Health Equity Institute at Morehouse School of Medicine. He is an inventor on vaccines and monoclonal antibodies approved for human use to prevent or treat RSV, COVID-19, and Ebola. He has authored >500 scientific publications, is a member of the National Academy of Sciences and the National Inventors Hall-of-Fame, and has received multiple awards for the advancement of science. Time magazine recognized him as one of the world's 100 most influential individuals and a Hero of the Year in 2021 and as one of the 100 most influential in health in 2024.