

Brendan Jackson, MD, MPH
CDR, US Public Health Service

Senior Advisor for Readiness and Response for CDC's National Center for Immunization and Respiratory Diseases

Brendan Jackson, MD, MPH, (CDR, US Public Health Service) is the Senior Advisor for Readiness and Response for CDC's National Center for Immunization and Respiratory Diseases. He previously served as Incident Manager of the agency's COVID-19 response and lead of CDC's response for COVID-19, influenza, and RSV this past fall and winter virus season. Dr. Jackson is trained as an internist, preventive medicine physician, and medical epidemiologist and is passionate about reinvigorating public health, improving public communications, and strengthening partnerships for prevention and preparedness.