

Madeline (Maddy) McNee, MPH
Program Coordinator
St. Jude HPV Cancer Prevention Program

Madeline (Maddy) McNee, MPH is a program coordinator with the St. Jude HPV Cancer Prevention Program. She is responsible for co-leading the HPV Vaccination Roundtable of the Southeast, providing backbone coordination and support for partners across the 12 states and two jurisdictions that make up the Roundtable. Maddy graduated from Duke University in 2022 with a Bachelor of Science in Global Health and Psychology and a minor in Spanish. She worked extensively in global health research, specifically in sub-Saharan African, focusing on HPV stigma reduction strategies, among other topics. She completed her Master of Public Health degree from Columbia University Mailman School of Public Health in May 2024. Through coursework in the Population and Family Health and Healthcare Policy and Management departments, Maddy has developed a specific interest in addressing health disparities, advancing access to health information through communication strategies, and health policy within the field of vaccination.
