

LCDR Hilda Razzaghi, PhD, MSPH
Senior Epidemiologist, Immunization Services Division
Centers for Disease Control and Prevention

Dr. Razzaghi obtained her PhD in Epidemiology from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill with a focus on cancer epidemiology and joined CDC in 2012 as an ORISE fellow. Dr. Razzaghi joined the Epidemic Intelligence Service (EIS) program and the United States Public Health Service in 2015. As an EIS officer in the Division of Cancer Prevention and Control Dr. Razzaghi focused on cancer disparities in the Caribbean Region. Upon completion of EIS, she joined the Division of Congenital and Developmental Disorders where she focused on birth defects surveillance and implementation projects internationally, working in Kenya, Tanzania, and India. LCDR Razzaghi joined the Division of Human Development and Disability in 2018 to decrease health disparities of persons with disabilities to improve health and quality of life. Dr. Razzaghi has been with the Immunization Services Division since May 2020 serving as a senior epidemiologist and a subject matter expert in assessing vaccination coverage among adults in the United States including pregnant people and healthcare personnel. Dr. Razzaghi has an abundance of domestic and global experience and hopes to use her experiences to reduce health disparities.
