

CAPT Amy Parker Fiebelkorn, MSN, MPH

Acting Lead of the Partnership and Health Equity Branch

Immunization Services Division (ISD), Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC)

Amy Parker Fiebelkorn is currently serving as the Acting Lead of the Partnership and Health Equity Branch (proposed) in the Immunization Services Division (ISD) at the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) where she oversees 5 teams supporting national, state, local, and community-based partners in building vaccine confidence, uptake, access, and equity. Prior to her detail as Acting Branch Lead, she was the Lead of the Adult Immunization Partnership Team, in the Adult Immunization Office in ISD.

During the COVID-19 pandemic, she led four response teams, including the Long-Term Care Team, the Disproportionately Affected Adult Populations Team, and the Influenza Response Team in CDC's COVID-19 Vaccine Task Force, as well as the Clinical Team of the Deployment Assessment and Monitoring Unit in CDC's Occupational Health Clinic. She managed more than 100 staff across the 4 teams overseeing implementation of flu and COVID-19 vaccinations in highly affected populations, she coordinated with the Countermeasures Acceleration Group, the White House, multiple federal and private partners, and across CDC for the successful booster dose rollout in long-term care settings, and she supervised contact tracing of CDC staff exposed to COVID-19 during deployments.

Prior to joining the Immunization Services Division in 2015, she served as a subject matter expert in measles, mumps, rubella, and polio in CDC's Division of Viral Diseases for 10 years. She joined CDC as an Epidemic Intelligence Service Officer in 2005.

Amy is a Captain in the U.S. Public Health Service. She received dual Master's Degrees in nursing and public health from Emory University in 2005.
